AMERICA'S VIEWS PRESENTED TO CONFEREES AT LAUSANNE

U. S. Observers, However, Have No Vote or Other Active Part—Ismet Pasha's Plea For Publicity is Rejected—Work Divided Among Committees.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lausanne, Nov. 21.—Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Italy and one of the three American observers at the Near East peace conference, addressed the peace delegates in secret session today, explaining the general attitude of the United States on Near East issues.

Although the Americans will exercise considerable moral influence, they will not have a place on any of the committees, nor will they vote upon clauses of the treaty nor sign the pact when it is drawn.

Before the secret session opened, Ambassador Child and Joseph C. Grew, American minister to Switzerland, and another member of the American delegation of observers, conferred with Lord Curzon of England, and Premier Poincaré of France, giving details to America's Near East viewpoint.

Two sessions were held today, both behind closed doors.

At both Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, urged that it was necessary for the Russian Soviet government to participate because of Russia's interest in the future of the Turkish straits.

Newspaper correspondents were barred from today's deliberations. It was announced, however, that three committees had been appointed to deal with the following matters:

- 1.—Political and military, with an English chairman.
- 2.—Economic, financial and public health, with a French chairman.
- 3.—Capitulations and protection of Christians, with an Italian chairman.

There will be no permanent president of the conference. This office will rotate daily between British, French and Italian, carrying out Mussolini's demand for equality.

Lausanne, Nov. 21.—Public diplomacy got a jolt in the Near East peace conference today when the delegates in secret voted to reject the plea of Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, for "open covenants openly arrived at." Ismet's demand delayed the session, for he had great difficulty in hearing what was going on around him.

Lausanne, Nov. 21.—When the second session of the Near East peace conference opened here today the impression had gone abroad that the Allies were prepared to make considerable concessions regarding the freedom of the Turkish straits in order to secure a lasting peace in Turkey and the Balkans.

Suggestion was made that the League of Nations appoint a civil commission sufficiently strong to prevent aggressive or defensive concentrations along the Dardanelles. Turkey would be given free passage for her merchant ships and men of war through the waterways except in event of war; then the straits would be closed to Turkish warships.

As an inducement to the United States to enter the League of Nations, it is probable that the Allies will offer Americans a place upon the Turkish straits control commission if America will join the international body. It is pointed out that the United States, by appointing three observers to the parity, has shown her keen interest in Near East affairs.

Before the second session of the conference opened at 11 o'clock, the chiefs of the Allied delegations conferred among themselves. Although Britain, France and Italy are in accord in all outward appearances, it is said that the aggressive attitude of Premier Mussolini of Italy, may bring about some change in the original program.

The "black shirt" premier of Italy has already taken objections to some of the clauses in the Allies' program, but he has made it evident that Italy wants to work in harmony with the other two members of the triumvirate. Mussolini insists, however, that Italy has an equal share of responsibility in the Near East and consequently must get full share of benefits from the parity.

Great Britain, France and Italy all hold territories having large Moslem populations and all are in accord upon the agreement that nothing must be done which would stir up the hostility of the Mussulmans in Asia and Africa.

The conference has opened with all sides expressing the ardent desire for peace. Leaders declared that if this difficulty is maintained, there will be no difficulty in creating a treaty to take the place of the treaty of Sevres.

DEMAND REMOVAL OF NEGRO OFFICERHOLDER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 21.—President Harding today received a formal demand from Governor John M. Parker and members of the Louisiana delegation in congress, to remove from office Walter L. Cohen, a negro, appointed as a surveyor of customs at New Orleans. Cohen was given a recess appointment to succeed a Democratic incumbent.

No Votes For French Women.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Nov. 21.—Equal suffrage for France was killed this afternoon when the senate defeated a bill granting votes to women.

U. S. ATTITUDE SUITS MUSSOLINI

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lausanne, Nov. 21.—Benito Mussolini, the Fascist premier of Italy, and the most spectacular figure in the Near East peace conference, in the first interview given out here today, approved the attitude that the United States has adopted towards Europe.

"I agree with the Americans that Europe must first put her own house in order before she can expect helpful cooperation from America," said Premier Mussolini.

"We have established an entente, if exists now, but we must give this entente significance by action."

"This is the beginning of a more active participation by Italy in European affairs. I believe that we all want reconstruction as soon as possible and there is but one right road through which this can be achieved. That is by international commerce and commercial treaties."

Premier Mussolini said that the people needed tranquility and work. Then prosperity and repose would follow. He indicated that it is the policy of the Fascist government at Rome to follow an aggressive policy in the future but not a policy which would cause dissensions among the Allies.

WOERNER AND CLARE ARE FREE

Each Had the Other Arrested and Then Failed to Press Charge—Judge Schick Dismissed Both Cases When Facts Were Brought to His Attention.

William Woerner and Jack Clare were both discharged in police court this morning when neither one would appear against the other. Both had been arrested charged with assault. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood informed the court that Woerner had been arrested at the request of Clare, and Clare had been arrested at the request of Woerner.

Both Woerner and Clare claimed that the other had shot at him twice, but as neither came to trial, just who fired the two shots was not made clear.

There were no other cases in police court.

HURLEY TURKEY DINNER WEDNESDAY.

The annual turkey dinner given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Old Hurley Reformed Church will take place Wednesday evening and they will begin serving at 6 o'clock. Old Hurley cooking has been famous since before the days of the Revolutionary War, and there is every reason to believe that when the inhabitants fled from Kingston when the place was burned by the British soldiers, they decided Hurley was the best place to flee to because they would be well fed there. Kingston people have found the same condition prevailing ever since, particularly when turkey dinners are given at the Hurley Church.

LAST FREE DIPHTHERIA CLINIC TO BE HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Eighty-Five Children React to Schick Test, Read on Monday—Dr. Johnston, Health Officer, Decides to Hold Another Clinic at City Hall.

So successful have been the three free diphtheria clinics held under the auspices of the board of health that Dr. Frank A. Johnston, health officer, announced this morning that another and final free clinic for this year would be held on Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the city hall.

Ninety-five children were Schick-tested at the last clinic held and the tests were read on Monday at the city hall by Dr. Laidlaw, of the state health department. The test showed that eighty-five children reacted to the Schick test, showing that they were susceptible to diphtheria, while ten of the children were not. Those who reacted to the test will receive an injection of the preventive on Monday afternoon at the city hall.

The test will be administered Thursday at the city hall by Dr. Laidlaw, assisted by Mrs. Mary O'Neil, the city health nurse. It is expected that there will be a large attendance. In spite of the disagreeable weather that prevailed when the last clinic was held it was the most largely attended of the series.

The children who receive the test Thursday will also have it read the following Monday.

Owing to the fact that the Christmas holidays are drawing near, it was decided that the clinic on Thursday would be the last for this year.

KLAN DENIES PARKER'S CHARGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 21.—Sweeping denial of the charges made by Governor Parker of Louisiana to International News Service came today from the Ku Klux Klan.

"The Ku Klux Klan will enter into no controversy with Governor Parker," said F. L. Savage, chief of staff at the Imperial Palace here. "Governor Parker's charges that the Klan is an organization, has engaged in political activities or has participated in acts of violence, are absurd and wholly untrue."

SOMEONE THREW SMOOTHING IRON AT WOMEN'S CAR

Monday afternoon while Miss Ida Kerr of 55 Albany avenue, and Mrs. Frederick Warren of Pine street were riding in their large touring car in charge of a chauffeur on the Saugerties road at Katrine, a four-pound smoothing iron which is minus a handle was hurled against the car. It struck the top near an upright tearing it and the iron bounced to the mud guard and landed on the running board. Luckily it did not go inside the car body and strike either of the women. The scene was near the hotel formerly owned by William Marx. The matter was reported to Sheriff Kolts and the smoothing iron placed in his possession and he made an investigation to ascertain if possible who hurled the iron. Miss Kerr and Mrs. Warren and the chauffeur also endeavored to learn who threw the iron but without success. They saw another car passing just after the incident and the occupants of this pointed toward the road leading toward Katrine station which indicated that they saw the iron thrown from that direction. As the car did not stop they were unable to get any particulars from the occupants.

CLERMONT NOT TO BE IN MOVIES

Big Movie Concern Obtained Loan of Replica of First Steamboat for Use in Films, But It Was Found Impracticable to Float Craft.

A big movie concern recently obtained the loan of the replica of the first steamboat, the Clermont, which lies inside the lagoon at Kingston Point Park, but when it came time to float the vessel it was found to be impracticable to do so as she was buried deep in the mud.

The movie concern last week took the matter up with the Kingston Dry Dock and Construction Company to have the Clermont moved from Kingston Point Park to the Island Dock shipyard for necessary repairs so that the vessel could be used in a movie. Several men were sent from the shipyard to the Point and thoroughly examined the hull of the vessel.

Their investigation disclosed the fact that the Clermont could not be floated and a report to that effect has been sent to the movie concern.

Indications are that the replica of the famous steamboat will spend her last days in her present berth in the lagoon.

CLEMENCEAU PREPARES SPEECH FOR TONIGHT

Deemed One of Most Important in His Career.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 21.—No speech that he made during the war as premier of France, was one more important than that tonight in the Metropolitan Opera House for which Georges Clemenceau spent the day preparing.

The "Tiger" arose at 3 a. m. in the home of Charles Dana Gibson, his artist host, and by lamp light went once more over the notes which will coach him tonight. Shortly before 6 a. m., Clemenceau slipped certain data. He remembered having left it with an attaché at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The "Tiger" woke up most of the hotel staff before he located his notes.

That gave him an appetite for breakfast. Besides his usual onion soup, Clemenceau had four eggs. He said he had spent the time from 3 until 7 reading, writing letters and inspecting his notations.

The former premier went to bed at 8 o'clock last night. It was the end of one of the busiest days of his life. He had shaken hands with 30 men at luncheon, was kissed by an actress, met Chauncey Depew and had spoken for an hour.

Thoroughly rested after the fatiguing day, and thumped and pronounced fit by surgeons, the "Tiger" expressed confidence toward tonight's meeting. His only program for the day is to rest with perhaps an automobile ride in the afternoon for the stimulus of fresh air.

Clemenceau has been cautioned for health's sake, to keep within an hour the address which he hopes will prove "a word in time" to avert a crisis in Europe.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE HOLDS UP SHIP SUBSIDY AS BUSINESS MEASURE FOR WHOLE NATION

Fleet Now Costs Government $50,000,000 Yearly Besides Depreciation—Subsidy Would Cut This In Half—Bill Would Benefit Many Constituencies Which are Opposing It Through Lack of Vision and For Selfish Reasons—Points Out That Foreign Nations are Encouraging Opposition.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 21.—Frankly recognizing at the outset the formidable opposition to the administration's ship program, President Harding went in person before a joint session of congress this afternoon and sought by the sheer force of business logic and patriotic appeal, to impress upon the nation's lawmakers, the urgent need for enacting the Harding-Lasker ship subsidy bill without further delay.

Just before President Harding reached the capitol to begin his address the house merchant marine committee favorably reported the ship subsidy bill to the house, thereby clearing the way for legislative action. The president began speaking at 12:35 p. m.

The president indulged in very little rhetorical "flag waving," although he did say it was the patriotic duty of congress to provide a strong American merchant marine, and he also observed that foreign nations are in complete accord with the position here to the pending bill.

But for the most part the president laid before congress a cold dollars-and-cents argument. He told congress that the American fleet of ships is now costing the taxpayers of the country $50,000,000 a year and that the ships are rotting at their wharves so that ultimately the great fleet built with such enormous cost during the war, will represent a total loss.

The subsidy provisions of the new bill, he declared, will reduce this annual expenditure by half, in other words, save $25,000,000 and instead of the ships rotting at anchor, they will be carrying American commerce to the four parts of the earth, ultimately become altogether self-supporting and finally provide the nation with a strong, capable merchant marine—the dream of years.

"I am not asking your authorization of a new and added draft on the public treasury," the president said. "I am appealing for a program to diminish the burden we are already bearing."

"When your executive government knows of public expenditures aggregating $50,000,000 annually, which it believes could be reduced by half through a change of policy, your government would be unworthy of public trust if such a change were not commended, nay, if it were not instantly urged."

From every point of view—justice, economic, commercial, prosperity, national pride and national defense—the president declared it is the duty of congress to enact this bill without further delay.

It has long been America's humiliation that she had no strong merchant fleet, the president said, and now when the ships are rusting in their berths, it would be "doubly humiliating" if congress fails to act.

"This problem can no longer be ignored," he said earnestly. "Its attempted solution can no longer be postponed. The failure of congress to act decisively will be no less disastrous than adverse action."

"Three courses of action are possible, and choice among them is no longer to be avoided.

"The first is constructive—enact the pending bill, under which I firmly believe, an American merchant marine may be established.

"The second is obstructive—continue government operation and attending government losses and discourage private enterprise by government competition, under which losses are met by the public treasury, and witness the continued losses and deterioration until the colossal failure ends in sheer exhaustion.

"The third is destructive—involving the sacrifice of our ships abroad or the scrapping of them at home, the surrender of our aspirations and the confession of our impotence before the world in general and our humiliation before the competing world in particular.

"I have come now to urge the constructive alternative, and to reassert an American 'we will'."

The president frankly acknowledged and commented upon the opposition to the program that has been so manifest by congress—particularly from western and mid-western senators.

"A more resolute hostility was never manifest before," he said. "But I am very sure that the need for decisive action was never so urgent before."

The president bluntly suggested that individual congressmen not be guided too much by their constituents.

"Frankly," he said, "I think it loftier statesmanship to support and commend a policy designed to effect the larger good of the nation, than merely to record the hasty impressions of a constituency."

He recognized clearly, he said, the American aversion to the word "subsidy." But he pointed out that the present annual outlay of fifty millions constituted a virtual subsidy, that the annual expenditure of $75,000,000 on road roads was a subsidy to American commerce, and he confessed himself unable to see why the same principle should be objected to in "providing for commercial roads on the seas."

The president made a frank bid for the support of agricultural members of congress by stating that he realized the deplorable conditions the farmers are facing. Also their tremendous losses, and he pledged his administration to corrective measures at once.

"Admittedly," he said, "enough has not been done for the farmer."

It was a crowded house that Mr. Harding faced. The galleries were crowded with people and outsiders were hundreds unable to get in.

The diplomatic gallery was filled for foreign interest in the American merchant marine program is keen.

Mrs. Folton, the new woman senator from Georgia, was given an ovation when she marched down the aisle of the crowded house with the senate, on the arm of Senator Harris, her colleague. She sat between Harris and Senator-elect Goerge, and was the cynosure of all eyes.

The applause that greeted President Harding was somewhat longer than usual. He spoke directly into the new house amplifiers—the first addressing congress ever heard outside the chamber itself. His speech today also was broadcasted by wireless.

GRAND JURY HEARS HALL-MILLS EVIDENCE

New Witness Threatens to Discredit Gibson Story.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 21.—As the grand jury of Somerset county convened for its second day's investigation of the mysterious murders on September 14, of Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, the state was confronted by the unexpected appearance of a hitherto unmentioned witness, whose testimony may prove to be of profound significance in weighing the ultimate value of Mrs. Jane Gibson's testimony, the state's star witness.

The new witness, George Sippel, a cattle trader of Middleburgh, N. J., who came to light late yesterday afternoon by a letter written by his wife to a New Brunswick newspaper, frankly admitted today that he had evidence which would shatter some essential parts of Mrs. Gibson's story.

The grand jury resumed its deliberations shortly after ten o'clock, summoning as the first witness Detective James Curran, one of the first officials to view the bodies. It is understood that the grand jury asked that he testify again to clear up certain points about the condition of the bodies which in his testimony yesterday, he had not explained.

TROLLEY CAR AT $200 SEEMED CHEAP TO OLAF

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 21.—It looked like a good bargain to Olaf Janssen, late of Sweden, when a well dressed man with a gift for conversation today offered to sell him one of the Public Service Corporation's street cars for $200. Olaf noted the cars dashing by with every strap filled and thought of the flood of nickels that would roll into his pockets. He purchased.

When the next car came along, Olaf boarded it and informed the conductor that he had just bought that car and that heretofore all the fares collected went to him. The conductor, being without sense of humor, put Olaf off. Then Olaf told the police of Secaucus, N. J., who are now looking for the stranger.

Bulletin For Farmers Contains Analysis of Concentrated Commercial Feedstuffs Which Are Being Increasingly Used.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 21.—Because New York state's yearly milk bill approximates more than $300,000,000, the state department of farms and markets, through Commissioner Berne A. Pryke, is leaving no stone unturned to protect the cow from feeding stuffs that would hinder instead of aid in producing milk.

A bulletin has just been issued by the department to guide farmers in the feeding of their cows. It contains information with regard to the component parts of feeding stuffs offered for sale in this state, and also an analysis of protein, fat and fiber content. The bulletin was prepared in cooperation with the Geneva Experiment Station, the department of farms and markets obtaining the samples of the feeding stuffs which were forwarded to Geneva for the analytical work.

"With the increasing city population, together with the better knowledge of the importance of milk in the diet, there has been a steady increase in the demand for liquid milk," said Commissioner Pryke today. "At the present New York city alone uses more than 3,000,000 quarts of milk daily, besides immense quantities of milk in the form of ice cream, condensed, evaporated and powdered milk. It is estimated that the milk bill of the people of New York state for one year approximates $300,000,000.

"The ration provided for the cow which produces the milk is largely a commercial ration, purchased in the form of what is now known as compound commercial feeding stuffs. To supply the demand for the product to make up the balanced ration for the dairy cow, numerous feed manufacturing plants have come into existence throughout the United States, putting out hundreds of millions of tons annually, and representing a large investment.

"It is to protect the dairy cow, and indirectly the city consumer of milk, that the present feeding stuffs law as amended in 1920 is being enforced by the department of farms and markets. The law is very explicit with regard to feeding stuffs. It requires that a tag shall be attached to each package containing a commodity showing its net weight, the name or trade mark, name of manufacturer, minimum per centum of crude protein, crude fat and crude fiber. The crude fiber may be omitted if it does not exceed five per cent.

"The growth in this business is shown by the report of the dairy and food bureau, which states that in 1904, 17 certificates were issued, providing for the licensing of dealers in concentrated commercial feeding stuffs. In 1905 there was an increase to 192; in 1910 to 458; in 1915 to 854; in 1920 to 1,254, while more than 1,700 brands have been registered with the bureau thus far this year.

Commissioner Pryke says that the total amount from these licenses collected by the farms and markets department for 1922 will exceed $40,000. This goes into the state treasury.

FLASHED LIGHT IN BEAR'S EYES

Captain Roadboy Shows There are Plenty of Ways to Escape From Clutches of an Angry Bear if One but Keeps His Wits Sharpened—A Gallant Tale.

"Girls are a funny proposition," observed Zink Biven as he and the other members of the Galluppers of Mountain League fame gathered about the camp fire at the hunting shack of Captain Ralph Roadboy.

"Now you said something," was the sage remark of Raiser Turk, who had never escorted a girl home in his life.

"That reminds me," interrupted Blink Biven, "of a girl I used to travel around with. She was one fine girl but extremely modest. Whether you believe it or not she was that modest that she would never go out for a stroll in the fall of the year because the limbs of the trees were all bare."

"Any one who cracked a joke that is so old it came over in the Mayflower ought to be taken out and shot," said Captain Roadboy with a grin.

"Yes," chimed in Raiser Turk, "and I am going to turn in before he tells me one that Adam told Eve in the garden."

"You all think you are funny," snorted Blink, "but believe me some of the jokes you tell are close relatives to the first joke ever sprung."

"Changing the topic," interrupted Roadboy, "I have long wanted to take a stroll over to the old Indian cave and tomorrow I am going to get up early and do it."

The next morning Roadboy left the others at the shack to shift for themselves and started for the cave. It was an ideal fall day and the sun shone warm and bright. "Just a regular Indian Summer day," observed Roadboy to himself as he swung along through the woods.

He had gone a mile or so from the shack when he was startled to hear an angry roar behind him and turning he saw an old bear bearing toward him with blood in its eyes. The reason was soon apparent for a short distance ahead of Roadboy were several cubs who were playing about in the leaves.

Roadboy to say the least was startled and glanced around for a tree to climb, but the nearest tree was several hundred feet away, and the bear would be on top of him before he could reach it. Not for nothing had he been known as the bravest player in the Mountain League.

He remembered just in time that he carried a small hand mirror in his pocket and quickly producing it he manipulated it until he was able to hurl a strong beam of sun light into the bear's eyes just as the animal raised up on its hind legs to clutch him in its forepaws.

Blinded for the instant the bear waved its forelegs impotently in the air and Roadboy realizing his advantage rushed in and securing a wrestler's hold on the animal hurled it over his head with such force that when the bear's head came in contact with the ground it stunned the animal.

Picking up a club that lay nearby Roadboy quickly finished the job by killing the bear and with a squirming bear cub under each arm returned to the shack.

THE PEOPLE'S PROJECT

The Management of the Central Hudson System is interested solely in the Central Hudson Valley. All of its officers, directors and employees live in the Hudson Valley. It has no outside interests or alliances. The people who make up the organization have grown up in the communities they serve. You know them as boys and girls. The Central Hudson and its affiliated companies is a home institution in every sense of the word serving the population of the Central Hudson Valley aggregating 200,000 people with essential services. The development of the System began over twenty-two years ago. It has grown each year steadily through good years and bad. Its success has resulted largely from the confidence and support it has received from its patrons nearly 10,000 of whom are now security holders and the actual owners of the properties.

The Management, representing these 10,000 owners, is vitally interested in advancing the prosperity of the Central Hudson Valley by providing the best service at the lowest consistent rates, such as will assist in the profitable operation of present industries and offer inducements to other industries to locate in the territory. To meet the demands of the service, a new and larger water power is being developed at Rifton, also, a steel tower, double circuit transmission line is being built to enable the bringing in of electric power from the Adirondack region.

The undertaking is being financed by First Mortgage 4% Gold Bonds, which carry the privilege of conversion to Cumulative Preferred Stock paying 7%. They come in 100, 500 and 1,000 dollar denominations and may be had for cash or under a liberal, deferred payment plan.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 21, 1922.

The Treasury Department reports that individual wealth throughout the country increased 40c during October. Possibly the majority is not aware of the addition because the minority is in possession.

"Prohibition officials urge buying the Bahamas to stop rum-running. They might have to buy Mexico, Canada and the world to complete the job, and even then—for look at our own election returns.

The British government paid fifty millions on October 15 and another fifty millions on November 15 into our Treasury—the year's interest on the war debt at 5 per cent. Why, then, the talk about failure to meet responsibility? As long as the British government pays such interest, there need be no concern about the principal. With 5 per cent interest coming in, our government may well consider that British war debt a very good investment.

According to Dr. G. Stanley Hall, "almost all good workers live long." He cites the blind Dandole acting as Doge of Venice at 84 and storming Constantinople at 94; Newton, making important discoveries until the last of his 85 years; John Quincy Adams fighting the House of Representatives at 85 and breaking his hip at 92; Gladstone resolutely and powerfully facing a hostile government at 83; and Washington, Wellington, Goethe and Humboldt, all living to an advanced age. At any rate it is better to wear out than to rust out.

Reading, Pa., contains a statue of a once honored citizen who has lost caste among prohibitionists because he happened to be a brewer. They therefore demand that the offensive monument be removed. The next step in a crusade continually running to greater extremes will doubtless be the demand for the demolition of Johns Hopkins University, Vassar College and other seats of learning that were endowed with money made in a business which was regarded as respectable in all countries and all ages and became infamous only a few years ago.

Among the 25 items of the "bill of rights" of the National Woman's party is the demand for equal standing with men in the church, including "admission of women to the priesthood." Of course neither Congress, nor the State legislatures, nor any judicial tribunal can force bishops or other church heads to ordain women ministers, but women aspiring in this direction may get what they want by waiting a while. According to report the Protestant churches are finding it more and more difficult to induce men to enter the ministry and vacancies are constantly increasing.

PLAY SAFE.

The election returns of Tuesday, November 7, signify something, but what they determine may be understood a month from now, or two months from now, better than they are today. Granting some of the deductions are correct, there is reason to believe that some may be inaccurate, or at least not so sound as they may now appear. Reasons have been given by those accepted as expert political analysts, but time may disclose causes that have not yet developed.

As to the explanation of the landslide, the beer and light wine question has been declared by some as the dominant cause of defeat of the Republican ticket. Others whose opinions are entertained have given various solutions of the Democratic victory. Too drastic economy, rejection of the Governor's transit plan, and any number of other reasons are cited as having been the cause of the big vote against the party in power. That we are passing through a period of unrest, which invariably follows a war and moves people to be against everything rather than for anything, has been discussed. It is worthy of careful analysis, and is another cause of the large plurality of the Democratic candidates advanced by many who have endeavored to explain what happened. While those whose opinions are of some weight have pointed out reasons, it is nevertheless safe to say that even they may learn something later that will change their views as to the overturn. The result of the election undoubtedly teaches a lesson, and the wisest course to adopt is not to make a mistake as to what it taught.

Can You Answer These Questions?

2. How many litters a year do rabbits have?

3. Please inform me of the habits of the mud puppy, Necturus, or hell-bender?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is there any such bird as a Booby?

Yes, several birds are thus called, owing to their stupid habits; but the one rightly owning the name is Sula leucogaster, "white belly", belonging among gannets. Lives in warm seas of America, and has rarely strayed as far north as New York and New England coasts. It looks like a swan, with a disproportionately long and large neck and head dwarfing its body. Total length 30 inches.

2. Is there any benefit in the rattlesnake?

In sections where gophers, prairie dogs and similar small rodents abound, rattlesnakes are valuable as checks on these pests. As these animals inhabit ground ruined for man's use, the presence of rattlesnakes there is not a menace, and they should not be killed, as they prevent a certain amount of increase to the rodents.

3. What is the average size and age of the following fishes: buffalo fish, spoonbill cat, carp and catfish?

Impossible to give span of life of "wild" fishes, longevity depending on the luck of the individual in escaping foes. Only captive fishes can give any data on length of span, and this is not altogether applicable to free specimens. Buffalo fishes grow to 3 feet long, 20-50 lbs. weight; spoonbill cat, up to 6 ft. and 150 lbs.; a common carp might be 2 ft. long, 4-6 lbs. but there are 2,000 species to choose from! Common catfish or horned pout 11 inches, up to 7 lbs.

ROMANCE IS HATCHED OUT BY MESSAGE ON AN EGG.

Just a year ago an egg packer with inextinguishable romance in his heart pencilled this message upon the smooth convexity of a choice specimen:

"I hope some pretty young lady gets this egg."

Samuel Lofaro, Milton, N. Y.

Three days later Rose Minicini of 282 Mott street went marketing and purchased twelve up-state eggs at a grocery in Prince street. She found the egg of destiny and she sat herself down and wrote to young Lofaro, mailing an authentic sun portrait. Samuel saw the specifications had been fulfilled and wrote back, sending his own picture. Correspondence ensued and Sunday at old St. Patrick's Cathedral at Mott and Prince street Sam and Rose agreed to go fifty-fifty in life's joys and sorrows. After the wedding, a gorgeous affair, more than 3,500 guests wished the pair happiness and celebrated the event in Arlington Hall.—New York Evening Sun.

ALBANY AVENUE CHURCH TO HAVE ROLL-CALL

These annual gatherings are always full of interest, and it is expected that this will be even more attractive than in former years.

"Saint Tammany."

St. Tammany, the tutelary genius of the famous Tammany Society of New York City, was a famous Indian chief, about whom many legends have gathered. He is said to have been a native of Delaware. After attaining his majority, St. Tammany removed to the banks of the Ohio, where he became the great sachem of his tribe, and acquired a wide reputation for wisdom, firmness and moderation. According to tradition, he signed the treaty with William Penn, and was chosen by the troops of Washington as patron saint in place of St. George. His principal maxim was "Unity. In peace for mutual happiness; in war for mutual defense." For what reason he was called "Saint" does not appear in any of the literature about him.

WHY Do Men Have Instinctive Fear of the Darkness?

And while I am on the question of influences, I would like to add my testimony concerning that original sensation, the fear of the dark. Why is it, do you suppose, that two grown men, who have deliberately fled the great white ways because of the joys of the great unlighted—why should they prefer to stick around the campfire after dark? Once I slept alone in the woods for two months and at the end of that time I was no more broken from the faint distrust of something beyond the firelight than at the beginning. It was the safest place in the world, my Adirondack camp. There were no dangerous animals, no dangerous insects, no snakes, no traps. I took supper regularly with friends on the other side of the lake, paddled over alone under glorious heavens, and suffered no feeling of the nerves. But my tent was 50 feet back from the water's edge, and those 50 feet through darkness up the familiar path verged on the unpleasant. I should have left a lantern on the landing to light me home, but that seemed childish. There was always relief I had lighted the lantern in my tent—a very slight relief, but actual. I never thought about being alone after the light was burning or minded walking up at night. I would like to know whether forest rangers, Yellowstone guards, nightwatchmen and all the citizens whose legal business is conducted after dark, have this same faint distrust of it, that is many degrees less than fright, yet a shade different from daylight case. All our cave-men ancestors could not have been afraid of darkness, lying in mortal terror at the approach of twilight. Yet anything short of that could scarcely have survived as instinct when so many other instincts have fallen by the way.—From T. Morris Longstrech's "The Adirondacks."

DATES FROM ANCIENT TIMES

Why the Unmarried Female of Today Is Officially Designated by the Word "Spinster."

The word "spinster" comes down from old English times, when the males and females of a family were described as of the "spear side," or "spindle side," from the different occupations of the sexes. While the men worked or fought, the women stopped at home spinning wool or flax.

In those days every woman, whether single or married, was a spinster, because in the literal meaning of the word, her chief work was spinning while the men fought or hunted.

Gradually the word spinster came to mean more especially the unmarried daughters, possibly because it was understood that they were spinning for themselves, and the future "bottom drawer," whereas the word wife meant literally one who had been a weaver, and therefore was not now. Later spinster stood exclusively for the unmarried, and in 1617 it became the legal term for such.

Why Swimming Is Healthful.

There was never a time when swimming was so widely recommended as today—not only as an amusement, but also as a health cure.

A few years ago swimming was but indifferently popular. Now, strange as it may seem, it is being used as a treatment of diseases as well as a means of increasing fitness of healthy men and women and children of all ages.

For swimming is the only exercise in the world which a man partially paralyzed can engage in. The weight of the body is supported by the water. Those limbs which have escaped damage can be used for locomotion, and even the damaged limbs obtain valuable exercise.

Very favorable reports have been made on this new therapeutic method.

How to Polish Stone.

A stone surface may be smoothed and polished quite satisfactorily by means of a good smooth, flat, hard stone and a piece of sole leather attached to a board. Emery powder, No. 90 to No. 100, which is procurable at any hardware store, is spread over the surface to be polished, a liberal supply of water is added and the flat stone is vigorously applied in a circular motion. The amount of patience and muscle exercised determines the smoothness of the stone. When sufficiently smooth the leather is applied in a similar manner and a very fine and lasting polish is secured.

Why Eddie Whirl Counter-Clockwise.

A correspondent writes to the Scientific American asking if it is true that all whirlwinds, tornados, cyclones, typhoons (movements of air), maelstroms, water leaving a washbowl or bathtub (movements of water), unless artificially interfered with, revolve counter-clockwise. If so, what causes this?

The answer is: "The rotary motions which you describe are caused by the earth's rotation on its axis. They are counter-clockwise in the northern and clockwise in the southern hemisphere."

Why He Delayed.

She (battering)—"Didn't you ever that if Miss Bate rejected you you would cast yourself into the deepest part of the sea?"

He—Well, if you see, I'm still gathering statistics. It's so easy matter to find out where the deepest part of the sea is.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Purpose.

He is a weak man who cannot resist and weave the threads of his feeling; however, he, however tangled, however strained, or however strong, will the great cable of purpose, by which he has secured to his life of action.—Donald G. Mitchell.

COUNTY ASSESSED AT $44,801,287

Report of Committee on Form and Footing of Assessment Rolls and Report on Ratio To Full Value Adopted By Supervisors.

The county legislature met Monday night and transacted considerable business, among other matters being the fixing the ratios of assessed values of the towns and City of Kingston, and the adoption of the report of the committee on form and footing of the assessment rolls. Several resolutions calling for the appropriation of money by towns and by the county were offered. The county treasurer called attention that it will be necessary to raise on the county to pay bonds and interest due in 1923 the sum of $53,680.

The committee on form and footing of assessment rolls reported that the assessment rolls of the several tax districts as submitted to it had been examined, that each roll is properly verified as required by the tax law, and that in all respects the said rolls are, in the opinion of the committee, of the form required to make a valid legal tax levy thereon. The committee reported that the footings of the assessment rolls referred to it as made by the assessors and supervisor of each tax district have been verified and corrected. The committee reported the total value real, personal and special franchises of the towns and City of Kingston to be as follows:

Denning	266,428
Esopus	1,794,525
Gardiner	536,905
Hardenbergh	175,842

Ulster	1,357,007
Wawarsing	1,870,036
Woodstock	666,740

$44,801,287

On motion of Supervisor Dushinberrie the report was adopted.

The committee on equalization reported, having examined the tax rolls of the several towns of the county and of the city of Kingston, and such other evidence as was presented them, to ascertain whether the valuations in one tax district bear a just relation to the valuation in all the tax districts in the county; and they have determined that the ratios or percentages, which the assessed value of the real property in town and in the city of Kingston bear to full value of such real property, are as follows: The committee recommended that the ratios be adopted and established by the board as the ratios which the assessed values of the real estate in each town and the city of Kingston bear to the full value of the real estate in such towns and city.

Denning	65
Esopus	42
Gardiner	50
Hardenbergh	70
Hurley	75
Kingston	100
City of Kingston	100

Plattekill	50
Rochester	65
Rosendale	60
Saugerties	100
Shandaken	70
Shawangunk	80
Ulster	45
Wawarsing	45
Woodstock	75

A resolution by Supervisor Brink establishing the above ratios was adopted.

County Treasurer James Lounsbury in a communication called attention that there will fall due in March, 1923, bonds in the following amounts: Series 40, $3,000; Series 41, $2,000; Series 42, $2,000; Series 46, $2,000; Series 54, $5,000; Series 57, $2,000; total $46,000. Also interest $7,680, a total of bonds and interest due of $53,680. Referred to the committee on appropriations.

A communication was read from the town board of Denning asking for an appropriation of $1,000 for extraordinary repairs to the Red Hill road. Referred to the committee on town expenses.

A communication was read from the town board of Wawarsing asking for an appropriation of $3,500 for extraordinary repairs to Green, Mill-Cragmore and Ulster Heights roads. Referred to the committee on town expenses.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BUTTERFLY'S FAREWELL CALL

Now Mr. Monarch Butterfly had been talking and singing to Mr. Sun, and he had made all his plans for going away for the winter months.

It was his custom to go South, and he traveled by wing, as the birds travel by wing.

He was going to make one call before he left—that was on his friend Sir Clouded Sulphur Butterfly.

"Ah yes," said Mr. Monarch Butterfly once more, "it is time that I can travel South in the winter. It is more interesting to travel than to sleep."

"Of course those who sleep in the winter wouldn't agree with me. But then it would be a dull world if everyone agreed with everyone else, a very dull world indeed."

"And it would be a dull world if everyone did the same thing as everyone else."

"Well, I must be off for my call, and then for my journey. How lucky I am that I do not have to carry my luggage."

"I don't have to bother about express companies and railway trains and tickets and such nonsense."

"I don't need any ticket the way I travel, no indeed, and I don't need a trunk, and I don't need a suitcase. All I need to do is fly by day and rest on the bushes at night. Sometimes I'll have companions and sometimes not."

The Monarch flew over to his friend, Sir Clouded Sulphur Butterfly.

Sir Clouded Sulphur was at home in his Clover library.

"I've come to say good-by for the winter," said Mr. Monarch Butterfly. "I'm going down South, as is the family custom."

"I'm sorry to see you go," said Sir Clouded Sulphur, "but soon I'll be asleep, and I wouldn't be very sociable that way."

"Isn't it rather a long trip to take by yourself?" he added. "I should think you'd be afraid."

"Oh, it's always hard to leave, I suppose," Mr. Monarch Butterfly said. "I can't bear to say good-by, but I don't care to sleep for the whole winter, as so many of you do, and so I must go to a warm climate."

"Sometimes I do feel a little afraid. But Sir Clouded, we'll never get anywhere at all if we're always afraid, will we?"

"And I wouldn't deserve my name of Monarch Butterfly if I were a coward and afraid to go adventuring. Besides, I've had narrow escapes here."

"I've been sitting in the warm sun, sipping sweet drinks, and I've almost been caught!"

"I've passed through dangers, and I'm not afraid. I want to have adventures. I want to see the great, wide world. I want to go where the birds go, where there'll be singing all through the winter! I love music. And the flowers will bloom, too!"

"And Mr. Sun has promised that he will not fail to see that I keep warm. So I'm going. It is exciting to think that I shall fly off this very day!"

"And I'll go beyond these hills and these valleys for a journey and adventures."

"It is all right for you," said Sir Clouded Sulphur, "but I never never want to leave my home."

"You make me feel a little homesick already," said Mr. Monarch Butterfly. "Good-by, good-by, pleasant sleep!"

Sir Clouded Sulphur waved a good-by in his cheery fashion.

And then Mr. Monarch started off. Then he turned back after he had gone just a little way.

"Good-by, milkweed home," he whispered, as he bent down over the milkweed plant which had been his beloved food and resting place and play ground.

"Please be here when I come back in the spring."

"You've made me so happy, and I love you so, my little simple, beloved, milkweed home!"

Then he kissed one of the leaves and also took a wee bit along for a keepsake!

"Good-by, Milkweed Home,"

He felt rather sad for a few moments and then he spread out his wings and took a deep breath of the sweet autumn air.

"How foolish I was to feel sad!" he exclaimed. "I couldn't sleep all winter and I'd freeze my wings if I stayed up here. And Mr. Sun is going to shine over me. I'll not be lonely."

"There may be dangers ahead—but I'm leaving dangers behind. And I'm not afraid."

"For what is life without adventures?"

And he began his long flight, straight for the warm and sunny South!

SEA FOOD

It is not necessary that one live near either coast to enjoy the delightful food that the ocean carries, for one may find in any delicious dishes prepared from canned food. If you are fond of crabs, stuff some peppers with crab meat and bake them.

Fish Pie.—Cook in three tablespoonfuls of fat one sliced green pepper, one small onion, sliced fine, and three tablespoonfuls of minced mushrooms. When all are well browned remove them from the fat and add three tablespoonfuls of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of chicken stock and one teaspoonful of salt. Stir constantly until the sauce thickens, then add one cupful of fish, salmon, scallops, crab meat, shrimp or lobster. If the scallops are used, cook in the chicken stock until they shrivel, add the other ingredients, put into small baking dishes lined with mashed potato, then cover each with mashed potato and brown in the oven. Serve from the dishes in which they are baked.

Scallop Chowder.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of salt pork fat in a saucepan; add one small onion, minced very fine; cook two minutes, then add two cupfuls of raw sliced potatoes. Cover with three cupfuls of water and, when the potatoes are tender, add two cupfuls of milk and two cupfuls of minced scallops, when they shrivel add salt and pepper to taste and six soda crackers. In serving, put a cracker in each soup plate.

Sea Food a la Poulette.—Cook six oysters and six clams in their own juice until their edges curl. Melt two tablespoonfuls of fat, add the same measure of flour; mix well and add one-half cupful of milk and one-half cupful of oyster and clam liquor. Stir the sauce until it thickens, then remove from the fire, and when well-cooled stir in the beaten yolk of an egg. Serve with toast points.

Stuffed Tomatoes.—Fill tomato cups with chopped onion and cucumber well seasoned with a rich dressing.

PINE HILL.

Pine Hill, Nov. 20.—Mr and Mrs. C. O. Billings will leave town Thursday for Florida, where they will remain during the winter.

A large number of our villagers attended the basketball game and dance at Allaben last Saturday evening.

A large barn near the American House on the hill near Fleischmanns, was destroyed by fire last Wednesday evening. A quantity of hay stored in the barn also burned, and a team of horses which were taken from the barn broke away and ran back in the flames and were also burned.

How does this weather suit you?

YOU don't have any gasoline trouble if you use Socony Gasoline regularly, as hundreds of thousands of motorists do.

And for cold weather motoring particularly, you will find dependable Socony the most economical and satisfactory gasoline you can buy. It is refined to specifications as carefully as your car is built to its specifications.

If you have been having trouble with your motor since the cold weather set in, drain your tank, and fill up with Socony. Then just see that your spark plugs are clean, and your carburetor properly adjusted (Socony does not need such a rich mixture,) and you are through with your gas troubles for the winter.

But stick to Socony—don't mix other brands with it.

SHERIFF IS HOST TO A BAD ACTOR

Anderson Has Shown Determination to Kill Someone and Tried to Hang Himself.

John Anderson, who was arraigned before County Judge Fowler in county court Monday afternoon on an indictment for assault in the second degree, and for whom a commission of two doctors was appointed to examine him for insanity, is evidently a very bad actor. Originally he was an inmate of the Elmira Reformatory and his actions there became so dangerous he was transferred, after being in the detention camp, to Dannemora. At that institution he caused so much trouble the officials not being able to handle him transferred him to the State Hospital for Mental Defectives at Napanoch. Since being there he has cut two keepers with a knife and a few weeks ago tried to end his own life by hanging, but was discovered suspended from the end of a rope and cut down. That he is a very dangerous man, his actions show and Sheriff Kolls, who now has him in charge in the Ulster county jail, hopes that the doctors will find him a fit subject for the Matteawan State Prison for Insane.

Saugerties, Dance November 28.

The Madjeska brothers of Saugerties, announce their fourth seasonal dance for Tuesday evening, November 28, at Lasher's Hall, Saugerties. A large number from this city have attended the previous affairs and have expressed their desire to attend future functions. Dancing is held from 8 to 1 o'clock. Balfe's orchestra supplying the music. A prize for trot and a number of novelty dances will also be staged.

Plan to Prevent Bad Checks.

To protect merchants and students from the passing of bad checks by a few dishonest persons—an evil which had become quite troublesome in the last two or three years—a new plan has just been worked out by a Madison bank which will assist University of Wisconsin students in proving their check signatures to be genuine.

Under the new plan the student carries an identification card issued by the bank with which to compare signatures. The acid-proof card, which is given to each student who opens an account, includes in the identification the student's signature as signed in the presence of the bank teller, so that it may be compared with the one on the check.

Forgery will be difficult with this new method, and it is hoped by the originator of the plan that every student will adopt the idea.

The handling of the small temporary bank accounts of 7,500 students offers a complicated problem, and, because Madison merchants have been accommodating in cashing student checks, more or less opportunity has been offered for dishonest persons to pass bad checks.

Classics Running Behind.

The Molière tradition remains strong and abiding. The actors of the Comédie Française are artistic descendants of the famous playwright. The Comédie Française had its beginning nearly 250 years ago, when it was founded by the amalgamation of Molière's own company and the comedians of the Hotel de Bourgogne. The permanent staff of the Comédie Française enjoy a substantial state subvention, from which each of the players receive in addition to payment for every performance "a retaining fee" of 12,000 francs, and when too old for service a generous pension. The only condition of the subvention is that Molière's plays must always be in the repertoire, despite the fact that of late this has meant financial loss, as modern plays prove more attractive to the Parisians than those of the classical dramatist. Modernists are ahead of the classicists nowadays in more than one walk of life, which after all is but a sign of the times.—Montreal Gazette.

Liberty Must Enlighten.

It is not by destroying tyrants that we are to extinguish tyranny; nature is not thus to be exhausted of her power to produce them. The soil of a republic sprouts with the rankest fertility; it has been sown with dragon's teeth. To lessen the hopes of usurping demagogues, we must enlighten, animate and combine the spirit of free men; we must fortify and guard the constitutional ramparts about liberty. When its friends become indolent or disheartened, it is no longer of any importance how long-lived are its enemies; they will prove immortal.—Fisher Ames.

ARRAIGNMENTS IN COUNTY COURT

Hovencamp Admits Bigamy—Frankton and DeWitt Dismissed—Commission for Anderson—Robinson to be Sentenced.

County court convened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at which time more prisoners were arraigned. No case was ready for trial and an adjournment was taken until this morning at 10 o'clock, then Joseph Trotty case being put on the calendar or that time.

Edward D. Hovencamp, indicted by the grand jury for bigamy, was arraigned in court and entered a plea of guilty. It is alleged that he acquired a second wife on June 21, 1922, in the town of Wawarsing. He was not represented by an attorney but stated that he wished to plead guilty. The case was adjourned.

In the case of The People vs. William Frampton and Robert DeWitt, two residents of Walker Valley, the indictment of grand larceny, second degree was dismissed. It is alleged that the two young men on July 8, 1922, removed some tires and other goods from an automobile which had become stalled on the mountain between Walker Valley and Ellenville. Frampton and DeWitt tried to assist the owner of the stalled car and when the owner went for assistance they removed the goods and took them home where they were found next day. Earl Houghtaling who appeared for the two men stated that at the time they had been drinking and had no intention of stealing and that they attempted to return the goods when they realized that they had taken them. Restitution has been made and the complaining witness requested that the indictment be dismissed.

John Anderson, an inmate of the Napanoch institution for mental defectives, was arraigned on a charge of assault, alleged to have been committed in the institution on June 9, 1922. Application was made to have him examined and it was found that he was sane and he was committed to the State Hospital at Matteawan.

Thomas P. Coughlin was assigned by the court as counsel to defendant, and Drs. Buckley and O'Leary were appointed by the court to examine the prisoner. Glen Robinson, who was indicted by the grand jury for an alleged running of a game of chance and who had entered a plea of not guilty, changed his plea to guilty of violation of section 973, as a lesser crime than under section 970 under which he was indicted. William D. Brianter, Sr., asked that the court take all of the circumstances into consideration when imposing sentence. He will be sentenced Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Many intelligent mothers overlook these few simple facts about food~

EVERY mother interested in her children's welfare meets a problem in the proper feeding of her boys and girls.

Parents often do not realize the evil effects of mal-nutrition; and that care in the selection of food will avoid a large percentage of children's ills.

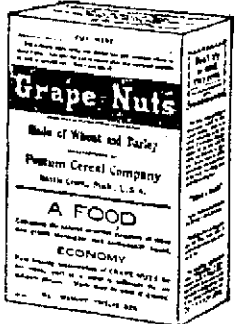

One of the best of all foods for providing proper nourishment for growing boys and girls is Grape-Nuts—made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, and scientifically baked for twenty hours. This long baking brings out a delicious flavor, makes the food easy to digest—without fermentation. Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food.

Here is a suggestion for better health: Serve Grape-Nuts as often as the folks wish it.

CONSTITUTION ISLAND GARDENS

Constitution Island, the home of the late Susan and Anna B. Warner, with its gardens, was perhaps the most interesting of the garden sketches given by Mrs. Francis J. Higginson in her paper read to the Ulster County Garden Club. It was the last estate described and of it she said:

As our subject is Old Historic Homes and Gardens in the Hudson Valley, the Misses Warner's home is of great interest, not only being the residence for many years of these two gifted women, but with the revolutionary history and background, a little account of history must be given of the valuable defensive part taken by General Washington and our American army at this location.

This island was formerly called Martineau's Rock, by the Dutch settlers, 1720 owing to the alleged atrocities committed by the Indians in this vicinity.

The strategic value of the Hudson river and valley was realized by Sir Henry Clinton in command of the British forces at New York and General Burgoyne in Canada. They planned to sail up the Hudson and down through Lake Champlain to combine forces and capture the surrounding country and cut off supplies to New England and the colonies, but their efforts were frustrated, as General Washington knew this and informed Congress.

The Continental Congress resolved May 23rd, 1775, that General Washington be appointed as a member of a committee to report on the possible defenses of the Hudson river.

Constitution Island was selected as the point of greatest strategic importance and in August, 1775, the first fortification in the Highlands was begun at this point. There was an old fort called Constitution, evidently built by the British before 1775 during the French and Indian wars.

The committee of safety communicated with Colonel Beverley Robinson (who married at Philips) of Garrison, New York, for the purchase of the island and its price. He replied he did not own the island as it belonged to the Philips estate. The original title expressed in a patent issued to Frederick Philips in 1691 and known as the great "Highland Patent."

The island remained in this family until November 3rd, 1836, when it was purchased by Henry Warner, a lawyer from New York, from a descendant of the Philips family, Samuel Gouverneur.

Washington clearly saw that the enemy's forces occupying the high promontory overlooking Constitution Island would with artillery make that place suitable for any garrison because of its geographical situation with respect to the already garrisoned east bank. The site was christened West Point, truly called the "Gibraltar of the Hudson." The history of Constitution Island is so closely woven with that of West Point that they cannot be separated.

The channel being narrow here, a great chain was forged and with beams floated across the river, as a barrier to prevent the passage of any British ships, a few of the huge links are still to be seen on Trophy Point, at the U. S. Military Academy, at West Point.

Washington put Benedict Arnold in command of West Point, and he had an office building at Constitution Island. The building is still there. Mr. Warner incorporated this building his own house. There is a trap door to be seen in this room where the ammunition was stored.

Washington established his headquarters at Newburgh in the Hulsebrook House.

Arnold at times also lived at Beverley Robinson House at Garrison, (now burned to the ground) from here he escaped when his treason was discovered and escaped to a British vessel anchored lower down the Hudson river, when news of Arnold's capture was received with incriminating evidence of Arnold's treason to deliver West Point and forts to the British. Alas! how great was the fall and treachery of an American officer who had achieved such daring and brave deeds earlier in his military career.

Many distinguished military officers and diplomats have visited Constitution Island, probably Lafayette and Alexander Hamilton, who were Washington's aids, Benjamin Franklin, Samuel Chase and Charles Carroll of Carrollton visited the reservation.

This spot is not only made famous as the home of the Misses Warner but coupled with its important role in the struggle for our independence, Constitution Island stands today as a landmark in the formation and development of our nation and its people.

We now leave the war to one of Peace and Gardens. Susan and Anna Warner were great lovers of nature, cultivated their own gardens, and tended them with affectionate care. Their love for and knowledge of birds was extensive. They collected many beautiful specimens of wild flowers, and a book of pressed ones is now to be seen at their former home on this island.

Owing to loss of fortune these two brave, noble women were forced to support their father, aunt and themselves by their pens.

Susan Warner wrote the "Wide, Wide World," "Queechy," "Diana, Hills of the Shattuck," and other books and articles, and Anna wrote some beautiful poems and many children's stories in this old house.

These sisters had been surrounded by every luxury and now suffered many hardships. They possessed a fine library, pictures; among them was a fine portrait of George Washington by Gilbert Stuart, in the living room.

Many are the celebrated people of foreign countries and our own literary, artistic and military were entertained in this home of culture and refinement.

"Flowers speak to us of beauty and are producers of joy. What joy they bring to many a sick room. Does not every flower present its challenge to us and say, 'Take me and culture me that I may reveal to you latent possibilities of beauty within me which human eye has never yet seen?'"

A young friend of Miss Warner's has sent me the following: I wish to tell you that Miss Anna Warner's little book, "Gardening by Myself," which was published by Randolph in 1872 has as its verse on the title page:

"Nor does he govern only, or direct, But much performs himself the task."

and this Miss Anna carried out. I can see her now with a broad brimmed hat tied under her chin, and a little basket on her arm, tending her flowers in the two long borders on each side of the path leading up to the house, where grew all the dear old fashioned flowers, and all the new fashioned ones that she could get, as she was most progressive in her tastes for flowers, and she loved to try the "novelties" in the catalogues which tempted her much more than the new novels.

What I remember most distinctly is the big clumps of "daffies" which she had naturalized in many corners, and that in her long borders were many beautiful roses, growing happily cheek by jowl with perennials and annuals.

I think her love for her flowers wrought results which are not given to gardeners' gardens, as the spirit of it seems to be different, and there was always peace in her borders.

I want to add the little verse with which she heads one chapter in this little book on gardening.

Do you know what spring is doing? Little children, do you know? She has carried off the icicles, And swept away the snow, And the soft air comes to fan her, And the birch hangs out his banner, And the squirrel-cup peeps boldly from his brown leaf bed below.

Anna Warner in Gardening by Myself writes: "Gardening by myself is so lovely, and so easy, that I would fain have everybody try it. I wish everybody had a garden and worked in it. The world would grow sweeter, tempered at once."

Flowers cultivated by Anna Warner were, roses, viz., agrippina, La Mare and monthly ones; sweet scabious, beautiful purplish rose and light bluish purple verbenas of nine or ten shades of color; Galis, chrysanthemums of two colors—white and yellow; sweet alyssum, mignonette, peonies, spice scented pinks, dahlias, phlox, woodbine, honeysuckle, holly hocks, geraniums and petunia and the sweet lemon verbenas and lilacs, a matrimony vine hangs over a trellis.

Botany went on briskly, a new bloom never to be missed, sometimes it was the dainty Orabranche of a small green orchid of about the same height and more rare; sometimes a new "Lysimachia" or the lovely "Golden Club" now almost gone from our shore, once a pink cardinal flower, clear, delicate pink, only specimen they ever saw.

Miss Anna Warner trimmed the cottage rose by the kitchen door and the green watering pot still hangs there where the wren made her nest.

It seems so strange to think of days when I shall not be here; When the winds will blow, and the waters flow, And I not even near;

When my roses will bloom for other eyes; And my birds sing not for me; And the shadows fall from the cedars tall

And I not here to see. O Wrenken! dear little friend! Make hay while it shines my sweet! Come down on the back of the old settle

On your dainty little feet. Come, turn your pretty head about And sing and sing and sing! There'll be many a change dear Wrenken

When I have taken wing. They'll tear away the corner gourd, And the old box over the door; And the little old green watering-pot Will be your nest no more.

On the island grow: laurel, hemlock, pine, oak, chestnut, maple and swamp shrubs. There are two fine old trees in front of the house, maple and elm.

Many relics of the Revolution have been found near the fortification and camp fires, buttons and other relics, a fine intaglio seal was found, having on one side the head of Mars and on the reverse side the "Dove of Peace."

Miss Anna Warner had received repeated offers from private parties to sell the island for a summer resort but she refused from patriotic motives in order that the island might ultimately become a part of the West Point reservation.

Mrs. Russell Sage a most original of givers both in nature and spirit; in 1908 bought the island for $150,000.00 and presented it to the United States government as a gift from Miss Anna Warner and herself. Constitution Island comprised 230 acres of upland and 50 acres of meadow the same to be an addition to the military reservation of West Point and to be for the use of the United States Military Academy.

In 1916, through the efforts of nearby Hudson river residents, the island was placed in charge of the Martineau's Rock Association which was formed for the purpose of perpetuating its memories, arranging label and care for the furniture and other objects of value which belonged to the Warner family and which the legacies have loaned to the association.

The grounds and flowers are cared for by a committee of the Philipstown Garden Club of Cold Spring and Garrison and vicinity, also members of the Garden Club of America.

The island can be reached by government boat on alternate Saturdays during the summer, or by row boat calling Cold Spring, Telephone 28, at other times.

The famous Bible classes that were held at West Point for so many years (first by Susan Warner and after her death continued by her sister) Miss Anna B. Warner. During the summer encampment she taught her boys in the old chapel after morning service where for one hour the cadets received from her painted lips an interpretation of the Scriptures and were elevated by contact with such noble characters.

A former graduate relates the following: "I can see her now before me, her quaint silk dress, her small delicate body, her ethereal face framed in the neatest and whitest of curls that peeped out of her charming, poke bonnet. Her whole presence radiated goodness and spirituality. Prior to the dismissal of the class she would regularly present each cadet with a fragrant bouquet of flowers, that she had that morning gathered from her modest garden and arranged into the daintiest of nosegays.

These few flowers were simple like the donor, but they brought into the life of the recipient a spiritual perfume that awakened his memories and took him back home to a rose scented garden and sent gravelled paths where another sainted woman was praying for the welfare of his soul. Truly one can use this sentence, "Say it with flowers."

He took the little nosegay back to camp with him and put it carefully in his tumblerful of water—along side of his tent as a reminder of what he should be, and as a check to ignoble impulses.

Here and there in his company street he could see his comrades' bouquets—little dashes of color, red of the petunia, the blue of the cornflower and yellow of the marigold. As they caught his eye they seemed to be a part of Miss Warner still exerting her inspiring influence.

Her Bible class still goes on every Sunday when the weather is fair; the chaplain takes the cadets over to Constitution Island where under the trees that Miss Warner loved so well, he continues her work.

If Miss Warner sees her "boys" studying the Word of God in the shadow of the old Revolutionary house, hallowed by her presence, what pleasure she must feel.

To the corps of cadets that she loved, she willed a magnificent original portrait of Washington by Gilbert Stuart that now hangs in the library. (Her portrait also by permission now hangs in the library. It is the only woman's portrait ever permitted to hang there.)

I myself can add the following: We speak of the flower of chivalry, but the flowers of love, peace, patriotism and spirituality must be woven in a garland and laid on the tomb of Anna B. Warner in the West Point Cemetery at the foothills of the Blue Highlands, where her body was laid to rest near the bluff that overlooks the Hudson and in sight of her home on Constitution Island.

GRACE G. HIGGINSON.

Thoreau the Verbos.

Margaret Fuller complained that in Thoreau "truth is seen too much in detail;" and "Horace Greeley remarked of his Canadian essay that 'the cities are described to death—' a journalistic criticism of 80 years ago, when writing had less need of compression than it has today. Indeed, Thoreau did traffic in so much detail that in "The Week" he had to room for half the incidents, sights and sounds, which that fortnight away from Concord yielded him. One might as logically condemn Meredith for the wealth of allusion in "An Essay on Comedy;" for Thoreau was no sophisticated, bored traveler, whirling round the world in the belly of the iron horse, and seeing only one new thing a day. The world smiled fresh for him and was constantly surprising him with its novelty. With the natural phenomena within the bounds of Concord he was familiar. But outside the village gates lived barbarians.

—From "Concerning Thoreau's Style," by J. Brooks Atkinson, in the Freeman.

Victoria's Record Reign.

Queen Victoria's was the longest reign in English history. It lasted 63 years. She ascended the throne in 1837 and died in 1901, at the age of eighty-one years. The next longest reign was that of her grandfather, George III, who was on the throne 59 years, though he became hopelessly insane nine years before his death, and his eldest son, afterward George IV, became prince regent. Edward III's reign lasted 50 years and Elizabeth's 44.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

One of the values of thrift lies in the fact, that, under prudent care, your dollars, as you add to them one by one, become your constant co-workers. And no matter what else may happen, they will keep on working for you day and night as long as you allow them to do so.

Co-operate with your dollars. A squandered dollar is lost and gone forever. Whatever of value it may have possessed for its owner, has ceased for all time. When it passed from his hand there went with it endless opportunities for development and happiness.

Saving a dollar constitutes merely the beginning of a helpful process. An enthusiasm for thrift is aroused which makes it doubly easy to save the second, and so the good work continues until in less time often than had been considered possible, a substantial sum has been accumulated.

If you are among those who unfortunately have never become savers of money, do not feel that the start is not worth while, because the amount of your first saving must perhaps be a very limited sum. A mistake is made by many who insist on waiting until such a time as they think they can put away a comfortable amount of money.

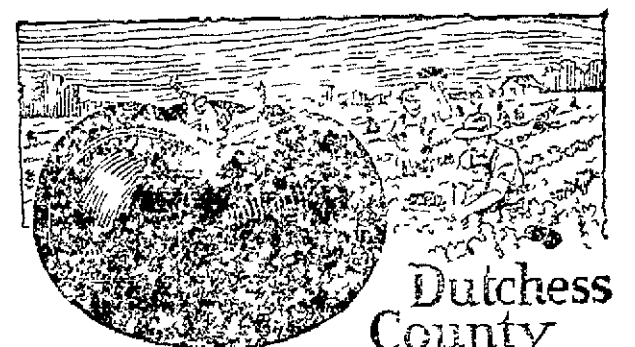

In most cases of this kind such a day never dawns. The way to make the start in thrift is to begin saving at once, regardless of how small the amount may be that you are able to set aside. Once you have made the start you will find that the path of thrift is by no means a difficult one to travel.

No matter how slow your progress may seem at first nor how many of the so-called pleasures of the world you appear to be giving up through self-denial, you will find that, in the end, the pathway of thrift leads to success. Save that first dollar. Put it to work for you. Not next week or next year, but now.

Four Large Centers of Population.
There are but ten cities in the world of more than 1,000,000 population, and Russia is the only country except the United States which has more than one of them.

Friends and Enemies.
The qualities of your friends will be those of your enemies. Cold friends, cold enemies, half-friends, half-enemies—terrible enemies, warm friends—exchange.

LENINE LETS BARS DOWN FOR PROFIT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Moscow, Nov. 20, via London, Nov. 21.—"We have retreated from our Communist principles only to jump forward again later on," Nicolai Lenin, head of the Soviet government, told the Soviet commissars in a speech today.

"It may be necessary to alter the internal policy, but our foreign policy will remain unchanged," Lenin continued. "Relations with capitalist countries were deemed advisable because Russian legislation gives us a chance to make profit."

"We were forced to break up old Russia, but we broke it up too well. The solution of our problems has not yet been achieved, but the moment is approaching when Russia will be a real Socialist Russia."

Lenine argued in support of the revision in policy, saying that it was necessary for Russia to get upon her feet economically as quickly as possible.

HOW WOMEN MIGHT VOTE AND NOT TELL AGE.

Editor, The Freeman:

I lift my pen in defense of the dear "old maids," seeing as how they have not a man to protect, honor and obey, which, however, is not their own fault in most cases; seeing as how her male ideal did not cross her path.

This is a big world and room for us all. What would we do without the "old maids" (this, however, is an improper term for we should always say "young")? Who would serve as school teachers, nurses and the many varied occupations too many to name. Surely not the wife, for unless she has lived in vain and married in vain she has a little brood at home to train up, to work for, to suffer for and sacrifice for.

And now one more word in defense of those whom I have said "lived in vain and married in vain." Surely they also fill an important place, for they do not take care of the cutest little "poodles" you ever saw. Were it not for them who would bathe the little dears and cover them with a warm blanket in cold weather and take them for their daily walk? Now let's pull together and to remove a great hindrance to peace, I advocate a law requiring a woman to vote at 18 years and merely to register as having been 18.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUTS, THEIR KIND OF BOY

Among scouting's warmest friends and supporters stands the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks. The following article from the Elk's Magazine, illustrated their deep interest in the movement's work for better boyhood:

"There are hundreds of incidents to illustrate the influence the scout idea is having upon the boys of this country who are going to be in long pants astoundingly soon, electing mayors and governors and presidents; who are going to be sitting in private offices directing corporations; who are going to be doing their bit in contributing to the country's wealth in factories and on farms; who are going to be running the railroad trains and stringing telephone wires; who are going to be inventing ways of doing things better than the best we now dream of. To list every worth-while boy scout service for any given week in the year would fill a 20-page newspaper printed in the small type in which stock market reports are set. There are 480,000 boy scouts in the United States; and if you understand that every one of the 480,000 starts his day with an eye set for a chance to do the 'Good Turn' and that one day is a minimum, you will comprehend how immeasurable is their influence for good."

"That the Elks should be interested spontaneously in this gigantic group of youngsters is inevitable. The attitude of the order toward the scouts is a big-brother feeling, born of an instinctive affection for the American boy. Added to that is hearty commendation of a body whose foundation is ideas tending to make of these boys the kind of citizens the Elks hold worthy of the country; possessed of a spontaneous loyalty to the flag, considerate of the rights of the other fellow, given to an immediate and unselfish shouldering of responsibility in times of public need and distress; to fair dealing and clean living."

WINS SAFETY CONTEST

Scout Stanley Newcomb of San Diego, Cal., whose essay "How I Can Make the Highway More Safe," was chosen by the judges of the Highway Education board as the best of 400,000. In a contest open to school children, and won him a gold watch and a trip to Washington.

SCOUTS KEEP THEIR HEADS

On the occasion of the American Legion convention at Decatur, Ill., a section of the bleachers collapsed, injuring a considerable number of persons and causing a general panic. Boy scouts were on duty as ushers and messengers, and came at once to the rescue, finding doctors, rendering first aid, getting stretchers from the first aid booth, answering questions of terrified persons who feared their friends might be among the victims, keeping away the crowd from the injured, serving in every way possible as their training fits them to do. "The scouts were the only ones who kept their heads," was the verdict of an observer.

HELP CLEAN-UP CITY

Scouts in every part of the country are making firm friends by their community good turns, as for example, in Marianna, Fla., when Troop One, in a clean-up campaign of streets, alleys, vacant lots and back yards, gathered 4,583 tin cans and tubs, punctured them so that they would hold no more water to breed mosquitoes, hauled them to the city's garbage dump, thus aiding the sanitary committee of the city council to rid the town of a deadly pest.

Now that vacation days are bringing play to the fore for old and young, it is worth recalling that sports and games ever were magic touchstones to geography and to those allied sciences which provide the surest clues to how peoples live, and work, and think.

In countless ways science has learned about climates, and products, and customs, and peoples of the past from toys, games and sports. An entire new field of investigation was

SCHAEFER MEETS HOPPE TONIGHT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 21.—As the result of Jake Schaefer's 500 to 303 victory over Welker Cochran, and that of Willie Hoppe over Erich Hagenlacher, the German, by a score of 590 to 462, yesterday, the Schaefer-Hoppe match tonight is likely to decide the disposition of the world's 18.2 ball line billiard championship.

Hoppe, to date has a clean slate with four victories and no defeats and if he can dispose of Schaefer, who has dropped one match out of four, he will regain his title which Schaefer lifted last year. A defeat for Hoppe will end the tourney in a tie as it did last year.

The possibility of a triangular tie is found in the fact that Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, also has a record of three victories and one defeat. Horemans will meet Roger Contil of France, this afternoon.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS OPENING NIGHT OF FAIR

At Mann's Hall Under Auspices of Trades and Labor Council.

Monday evening a large crowd was in attendance at Mann's Hall on lower Broadway at the opening night of the Trades and Labor Council Fair. The fair will continue all this week with Balfe's Orchestra supplying music each evening. In the absence of the mayor, Alderman Mann opened the fair with a brief address. A prize box trot which included a number of the best dancers of the city, was won by Louis Alcon and Miss Agnes Costello.

The pearl contest got off to a good start with Miss Ruth Gardner having seventy-two votes and Miss Elizabeth Doyle fifty-six votes. Envelopes for the popularity contest may be secured at the hall. The name of one's favorite should be written on the envelope with the amount enclosed.

MAIRSLAND LOST ONE OF TEN SIMULTANEOUS GAMES.

Judge Fowler Beat Him and Metzger Gave Him Trouble.

Frank Marshall, champion chess player of the United States, delivered a lecture at the Kingston Club Monday evening, taking as his text Paul Morphy's brilliant games. Later he played simultaneously against ten of the best chess players of the Kingston Club, winning nine of the games but losing to Judge Joseph M. Fowler, who checkmated the champion just as the latter had begun a series of brilliant moves. Mr. Marshall says that the only other player who gave him serious trouble was Emanuel Metzger, who lost after a long and exciting game. Judge Fowler is the third Kingston Club player to defeat the American champion on the various occasions he has visited the club.

CO. I FIVE'S FIRST GAME WITH SHANDAKEN.

The Co. I basketball team, with practically the same lineup as last year, will open their season Wednesday night by playing the Shandaken team. This will be a preliminary to the big game between Kingston and Troy. The game will start at 7:15. All teams outside of Kingston averaging 130 pounds, and desiring games, communicate with Manager John Mullen, State Armory, Kingston, N. Y. A return game must be guaranteed.

NEWBURGH PROBABLY WILL PLAY ALBANY CHAMPIONS.

The Knickerbocker Press carries the announcement this morning that in all probability a post-season game will be played this Saturday at Chabad Park, Albany, between the teams representing Albany High School, winners of the Northwestern New York championship, and Newburgh Academy, winners of the Central Hudson valley championship.

COLLEGE PLAYER AIDS SPORT

Former Baseball Star, Jack Barry, Is Loud in His Praise of Collegians on Diamond.

Jack Barry, former star shortstop of the Philadelphia Athletics and one of the Boston Red Sox, and an alumnus of Holy Cross college is one of the great many who give the college players much credit for uplifting baseball in general. While discussing the subject recently Barry said:

"It is surely true that the college players have done more to elevate professional baseball than any other factor in the development of the game. The college player has helped to make the national sport worth while. He has helped to make the professional baseball player respected everywhere, and his influence has tended to eliminate most of the rowdiness from the game."

GIANTS MADE BEST RECORD

New Yorkers Won 26 Straight Victories in Chase for Pennant During 1918 Season.

Speaking of straight victories, the New York Giants made a record in 1918 which will stand for some time to come.

That season the New Yorkers won 26 in a row and 17 straight on the road. In the American league the Chicago club won 18 straight in 1906 when making their drive for the pennant.

Glows of Leather and Cloth Bindings.

The decorative value of books is too little appreciated. Of course no one would recommend the purchase of books for this purpose. But the books one has should be given a chance to brighten and enrich the room with the subdued glow that comes from various colors blended in their bindings.

EXHIBIT POWER TO REASON

Remarkable Example of Intelligence Displayed by Colony of Ants in the London "Zoo."

Lord Archibury once wrote of ants: "It is difficult to deny them the gift of reason. Their mental powers differ from those of men not so much in kind as in degree."

Among the most interesting things at the zoo in Regent's park are two nests of wood ants, fascinating insects with social instincts and industrious habits. London "H-Bits" states. Thousands of these insects are isolated on an "island" surrounded by a moat to prevent them from straying too far from home.

In this community there are males, females and a whole host of "workers." The workers guard the nest, excavate galleries for the reception of the young, procure food, tend the eggs and the helpless grubs and wait upon the queens.

They appear to have the power of communicating with one another and may often be seen co-operating in the performance of a task that has proved too much for one.

In their abode at the zoo they have formed a ridge around one edge of the moat, supposedly because too many ants tumbled into the water and had to be hauled out by their relations!

Recently it was noticed that the ants were building a new mound right in the middle of their island. They were seen to be in a great hurry, for some of them worked even during the night.

Gradually the new building was seen to be a series of galleries made up of leaves, refuse and twigs. A few days after the completion of this work a new mound put in an appearance, which shows the admirable intelligence and foresight of these little insects.

TWO OLD-TIMERS TALK OF BALL'S LIVELINESS

Harry Lord and Jack Chesbro, one an infielder and the other a pitcher in the American League a decade and a half ago, perhaps express the opinion of most veterans when they say that the present-day article of diamond play is less a matter of fine skill and more of hitting, or ability to take advantage of the ball's liveliness. "The pitcher had more of a chance in the old days," Chesbro puts it. "It took a long, hard drive to get the ball by the outfielders then, but now nearly anyone can send one over the fence." Lord advocates a "happy medium" in the resiliency of the ball. If some of the old-timers had the lively ball in their prime, he says, they would have made three, four or five hits in almost every game.

Highly Important Business.

Too many people who claim to mind their own business mind only a part of it. Their conceptions of relations and obligations are so narrow that they fail to mind some of their most important business. This includes the important business of good citizenship.
